As District Judge for Milam County, he has served well and faithfully in this realtionship to the important duties and has set the highest possible standards for the court.

In making public mention for publication of the candidacy of one so well known and universally esteemed, it is difficult to properly appraise his personality, his training in law, and the wealth of his value to the people as a citizen.

His life as he has lived it, has reared high in the hearts of the people throughout Texas appreciation for the Bar and for the government in Milam County.

Judge Gillis, not only gives to the important position as judge of the Court with its heavy responsibilities, character and strength but as a civic leader and citizen whose influence is felt in every phase of public and private life has merited the good estimation of all the people. The honors which have come to him are justly deserved and the confidence implied by his elevation to the judgeship, is a well dserved expression of the citizenship among whom he has lived through the years of his life.

His friends throughout the county will be glad to have knowledge of his announcement and will give their active co-operation in his campaign.

CHURCH LOOKS AHEAD TO ERA OF GREATER DESTINY

To free their church property of debt and to point its influence upward to a higher destiny in the community the First Methodist Church in Cameron is soon to launch a program of challenging magnitude that will not only have the active cooperation of its members but the well wishes and support of the people as a whole.

A plan of action that insures in advance a successful conclusion of the work in hand was launched on Monday night when workers met with the Pastor Rev. J. W. Mills in his home to go over the details and to arrange for the opening of the canvas the latter part of February.

The canvas is to run 5 days. Rev. Mills has mapped a thorough and comprehensive drive with ten committees each with a Captain and co-workers.

Each night during the five days canvas the workers will meet in the basement of the church for a dinner with speakers and reports on the progress of the day. Details of this part of the program will be printed beginning next week.

Cameron newspapers have pledged the church their active support in the canvas and the people of the city will welcome this effort with its broad challenge for progress and achievement.

Cameron Methodist church has property valued at more than $80,000 and the indebtedness is small in comparison to the worth both in material and spiritual values. The canvas goal is small for the resources of the congregation.

It will be a proud day for the membership when this debt has been liquidated and the church has been freed of the weight of this obligation. A unique plan is suggested by the Pastor Rev. Mills. Bonds will be sold in demominations to suit the individual giver so that the privilege to participate will not be denied any and in the aggregate sufficient money will be raised to liberate the church from debt.

As the campaign unfolds the people and the membership will be informed of the progress made and every encouragement will be given the laudable enterprise now undertaken by the splendid people who are responsible for this institution and all that it implies for a better community.

This is written on Saturday morning after a most hectic and disappointing night—and days—before. I was uable to write my regular letter on Friday afternoon because the House remained in session until almost midnight considering the most important appropriation bill of the session—the Agricultural Appropriation Bill. Of course, all of you know how ruthlessly it was cut, but possibly you would like to have a kind of play-by-play report of the proceedings.

To begin: I must again repeat that the committees are most powerful in the House. One of the most powerful of all is the appropriations Committee. No bill involving the appropriation of public money can even be considered on the Floor unless it has been recommended by the Appropriations Committee. The House Appropriations Committee has 39 members and is divided into a number of sub-committees. Hon. Clarence Cannon of Missouri is Chairman of the Agricultural Sub-Committee. This group held hearings on the agricultural apropriation for many weeks last Fall and again last month. They had as an outline the recommedations of the Budget Bureau. This Budget Bureau is a part of the Treasury Department and is under the direct control of the President. Presumedly, the so-called "Budget" speaks for the President. It recommended $777,123,358 for agriculture. In 1939 we had appropriated for the fiscal year of 1940, $1,166,386,915 for agriculture. On Monday morning the sub-committee reported to the full committee on Agriculture. In a closed meeting this committee made some additional cuts and recommended that the bill be favarably reported with a total of only $622,619,256 or $543,867,659 less than was appropriated last year. Of course, the largest single item omitted was the appropriation of $225,000,000 for parity payments. The bill was not printed, nor could the members of the House know what was in it until Tuesday at noon when its consideration was begun. This bill like almost all important measures, was considered in the "Committee of the Whole House" that is, by the whole House, but acting under the rules of a committee. Under this system, it is impossible to get any record vote of any of the proceedings in the "Committee."

The first two days were devoted to "general debate;" that is, a general discussion of any or all the items involved. This debate is controlled by the Democratic Chairman of the sub-committee, and by the "ranking" Republican (that means the member with the longest continuous service—everything up here depends on continuity of service.) The gentlemen in charge of the debate "yields" time to other members on their side—that is, they allow others to speak for definite lengths of time.

On Thursday, we began to "read" the bill under the "five minute" rule. The Clerk reads the bill paragraph at a time. As he completes a paragraph amendments are in order to that paragraph, and may be sent up by any member, but the Chairman always recognizes members of the committee first. When a member sends up an amendment he may speak for five minutes. Others may secure recognition for five minutes to speak in support or opposition to the amendment.

Some fifty of us were most interested in the passage of appropriations for the various farm activities met for a caucus Thursday morning before the House met. We decided to ask Hon. Marvin Jones, Chairman of the Committee on Agruculture, to introduce most of the amendments that we would support as a group. Mr. Jones introduced the amendment to restore $25,000,000 for a continuation of the Home Purchase Plan for tenant farmers. It was defeated by only 14 votes. Mr. Ferguson of Oklahoma, a member of the Agricultural Committee, introduced the amendment to restore the funds taken away from the Soil Conseration work. This amendment was especially vital to Central Texas as it was necessary to enable us to get the maximum benefit from the newly organized Soil Conservation District. It was defeated by only 4 votes. I, of course, voted for both of these proposals. No amendment was offered to restore the parity payments because it had been decided in the caucus of farm members on the advice of Mr. Jones, and Mr. Cannon that to do so would lessen the chance of finally getting the money we wanted. These gentlemen all agreed that it would be impossible to put such an amendment on the bill in the House. On the other hand, Mr. Cannon stated that even though his sub-committee had cut the appropriation so drastically he knew that the Senate would restore a provision for some partity payments, and that if the House did not vote against parity payments he, Mr. Cannon, would not object to the inclusion of this item by a Conference Committee, but that if the matter were ever put to a vote in the House and defeated, that he would feel forced to oppose it in the Conference Committee. As the Chairman of the sub-committee picks the members representing the House on the Conferenece it seemed to be the wise thing to follow his suggestions.

As finally passd, the bill provides half a billion dollars less for agriculture than was provided this year. It carries no appropriation for "parity." It carries no appropriation for tenant home ownership. It reduces the appropriation for Soil Conservation Service, but it does provide for a continuation of Soil Conservation payments to farmers who co-operate with the program, and it will not affect any of the payments to be made to farmers this year. This money was appropriated last year.

With best wishes.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Spirit" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 11.

The Golden Text is: "God is a Spirit. and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth." (John 4:24.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you" (Romans 8:9.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "As mortals begin to understand Spirit, they give up the belief that there is any true existence apart from God" (page 283.)

FLETCHER STORE AT MINERVA BURGLARIZED

The W. H. Fletcher Store at Minerva was burglarized sometime Friday night, Sheriff Kennedy reported today.

The burglars took a large quantity of snuff, ladies hose, several cartons of cigarettes and some sparkplugs.

Sheriff Kennedy said it was an unusual burglary because valuable merchandise was overlooked and nothing else was missing from the store, so far as he knew, except the above items.

The burglars crashed one of the large plate glass windows in front of the store making a hole several feet square in the widow. No clues were left and Sheriff Kennedy, although working hard on the case, had not been able to develop any information that might lead to the identity of the thieves.

John Armstrong of Tracy transacted business in Cameron Saturday afternoon. Mr. Armstrong is a prominent farmer of that community.

Rainfall, beginning about noon insured planting of early grain and lifted business hopes Monday.

Aainfall, beginning about noon Saturday brought a precipitation in excess of 2 inches in Cameron and reports received by the Daily Herald up to noon Monday indicated this might be the average figure for the county with generally good seasons for planting.

Little River was reported about half banks from the waters over its watershed to the west and south.

Sandy Creek was at overflow stage from a heavy rain on its shed south in the direction of Rockdale where as much as 5 inches of rain was reported to have fallen Saturday afternoon.

Sandy Creek drains a large area southwest of its juncture with Little River. The heaviest rainfall of the past six months was reported from that section. Abundant stock water resulted from the rain.

In the black land belt the rainfall was more than 2 inches in average. The rain of Saturday came on the heels of an earlier fall of .80.

Rains were general throughout Texas and as far south and east as the parched lands of Southwest Texas where moisture has not fallen in more than a year.

The sun came out and balmy weather was experienced Sunday. Early Monday rain began falling. At the time of going to press no report had been received on the fall early today, but is believed to have been rather general over the Milam county farm belt.

Farming operations will now proceed and business generally will feel the effects of the good rainfall.

Texas was slowly emerging today from the grip of icy weather that for more than ten days has brought about sub-freezing temperatures and brought new record lows to sections where cold is little known.

Cameron, shivering for more than a week with the temperatues ranging from 18 to 6 above, may get some relief after Friday night.

There was hope that warmer weather could reach the city by Saturday. The broadcast for snow or rain was well intended but climatic conditions said otherwise and instead the sun broke through to spill a little warmth into a frozen world shortly afternoon. Cold will continue tonight but Saturday will see warmer weather.

Generally the freeze had a bad effect on business. Merchants were expecting a better run tomorrow.

The most serious problems yet to face is lack of moisture. Soon farming time will come and unless rain reaches the fields in time there is little hope for successful growing of grains and other feed crops in early spring.

Cameron plumbers were still working overtime to catch up with business caused by the freeze.

the first oen declation of support for Soviet Russia in the war on Finland and also announced that the Reich is shipping arms and ammunition to Russia.

This was taken as an admission that Russia can not afford aid to Germany. Germany fearful of Russian weakness must support the Soviet war in the Baltic.

Germany for the first time declared France to be equal in contempt along with England and war will be waged in the West.

Germany released figures claiming successful war against English Commerce. The Germans say they have sunk 409 ships of belligerent and neutral nations and 354 ships have been taken as prizes by Germany. The statement said Germany has lost 42 ships.

Nevile Chamberlain, British Prime Minister, announced officially that Great Britain is helping Finland and will continue to do so indicating a major was is be fought in the Baltic.

Finland was represented as almost to the breaking point but today as these reports came in the Finnish army was locked in fierce battle with Red soldiers all along the line.

Volunteers are being recruited rapidly in Britian and Ireland. More than 50 train loads of bombing ships and war supplies have been shipped through France from Italy consigned to the Finns.

Unless Finland gets aid from other countries, it was believed the little country cannot survive the present Russian drive.

Japan, according to radio reports to the Cameron Daily Herald has issued warnings that Americans should leave China.

Norway served notice on Germany today that the country's patience is almost exhausted over the bombing and sinking of Sweedish ships by the Nazis.

YOEMEN LOSE CAGE TITLE

PENALIZED OUT PENANT IN "FREE SHOT GAME"

By THE DUMB REPORTER

Time's most superb colollary of the Alibi was coined by Edgar Gest when he said in effect: "When its all over and they begin to put down what you've done, He won't write whether you won or lost but how you played the game."

This bit of touching philosophy has been slightly overworked by Major Biffle, the after dinner star who always gets the job of presenting the medals. Major Biffle was absent as usual Friday night from a little spot not far from the scene of his major triumphs, where I saw as neat a bit of heart touching melo-drama as ever came under the preview of these frank windows.

Of course you don't know about it. You weren't there. It was only a basketball game and the Yoemen were penalizied out of the Penant.

But that is not the story. It may be a little difficult to get it over. You remember what the late Vice President Charile Curtis said to the Kansas farmer?

Five boys wearing the maroon and gray of old Yoe High School gave as fine and complete account of loyalty and sportsmanship as any quintet ever gave to a school. They lost, or did they? Anyway the score was 23 to 22 and Rockdale now goes on in the title quest while the Yoemen can just listen to the oratory of Major Biffle and wonder if their sportsmanship and play is appreciated by the hundreds of Major Biffles who stayed at home.

Only the Dumb Reporter and close friend (very close) saw that the Friendly City was represented. There was no band, no Athletic Council, no student body, no cheers and no sympathy. Just us two and some mighty fine boys out there playing against an advalanche of penalities that would give Major Biffle and his team an even break with the Baylor Bears. It was a free shot night and the Yoemen managed to get one in the last half. It broke their hearts but didn't dim their loyalty. They were upholding the highest traditions of Yoe High athletics. But it was only a basketball game.

At the half the Yoemen were trailing 13 to 5. No team ever made a better showing. It was 22 to 25 at the end.

I stood at the door as the Yoemen walked off the court and out into the rain. Sure there were tears. There's something very fine, yes too fine, for Major Biffle to understand, about a school spirit and its traditions. Its something empty seats cannot blot out or kill for they just go on playing their hearts out without a cheer. Maybe its just youth in its finest accord with loyalty.

He'd led the pace. He couldn't understand why his team mates were penalized every time they moved. Yet kept right on until their showing was so plain the score jumped up to within two of a win. There was hardly anyway to penalize a ball out of the hoop, yet it was done once. He was crying. Others were crying too. Some were white with anger. Nobody said anything. Remember there were no cheers. It was only a basketball game.

"You were great," I said, "It don't make no difference whether you win or not, its how you play the game." Then I suddenly thought of Major Biffle, but overcome by the grand spectacle of heart play I went on, feeling very incompetent. 'We're for you, win or lose," you know, all that old stuff.

"Yesser, yesser, thanks," he said and disappeared into the rain.

"Ho, hum, I just never could get interested in basketball. It kinda bores me. You know, the more exciting games appeal to me."

They played their hearts out, the Yoemen did. There were no cheers for them. I'm giving them some now. It makes no difference that they are out of the running—that they lost the pennant and the cup. They are a great bunch of boys and I think they deserve a big hand and have lost nothing for their school because "Its not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game."

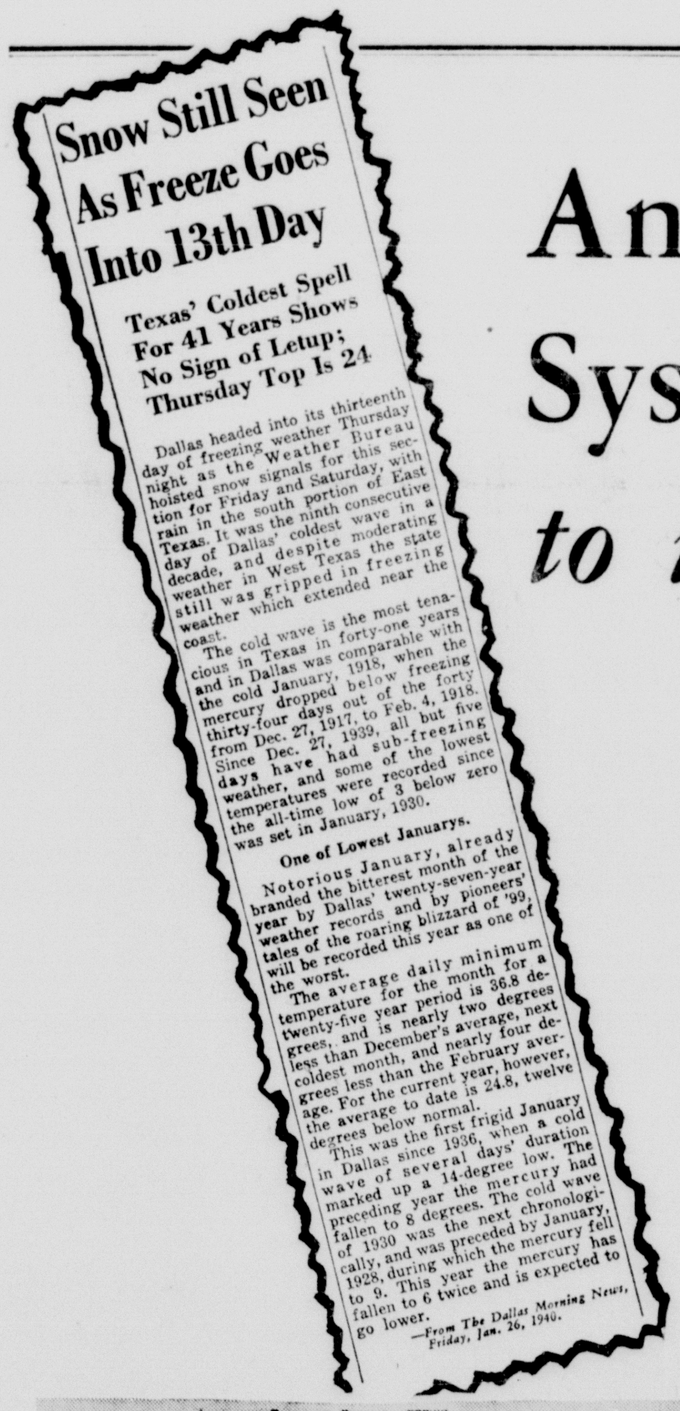
Most prolonged cold spell in 41 years places greatest test on gas company facilities in its entire history . . . dependable, unfaltering supply during emergency due to modern, interconnected pipeline system bringing natural gas from 46 separate gas fields . . .



Snow Still Seen As Freeze Goes Into 13th Day

Texas' Coldest Spell For 41 Years Shows No Sign of Letup; Thursday Top Is 24

Dallas headed into its thirteenth day of freezing weather Thursday night as the Weather Bureau hoisted snow signals for this section for Friday and Saturday, with rain in the south portion of East Texas. It was the ninth consecutive day of Dallas' coldest wave in a decade, and despite moderating weather in West Texas the state still was gripped in freezing weather which extended near the coast.

The cold wave is the most tenacious in Texas in forty-one years and in Dallas was comparable with the cold January, 1918, when the mercury dropped below freezing thirty-four days out of the forty from Dec. 27, 1917, to Feb. 4, 1918. Since Dec. 27, 1939, all but five days have had sub-freezing weather, and some of the lowest temperatures were recorded since the all-time low of 3 below zero was set in January, 1930.

One of Lowest Januarys.

Notorious January, already branded the bitterest month of the year by Dallas' twenty-seven-year weather records and by pioneers' tales of the roaring blizzard of '99, will be recorded this year as one of the worst.

The average daily minimum temperature for the month for a twenty-five year period is 36.8 degrees, and is nearly two degrees less than December's average, next coldest month, and nearly four degrees less than the February average. For the current year, however, the average to date is 24.8, twelve degrees below normal.

This was the first frigid January in Dallas since 1936, when a cold wave of several days' duration marked up a 14-degree low. The preceding year the mercury had fallen to 8 degrees. The mercury had of 1930 was the next chronologically, and was preceded by January, 1928, during which the mercury fell to 9. This year the mercury has fallen to 6 twice and is expected to go lower.

—From The Dallas Morning News, Friday, Jan. 26, 1940.

An "Interconnected" System—the vital key to unfaltering service!

January, 1940, is recorded as one of the most bitter cold months in our experience. Snow, sleet, ice and bone-chilling winds swept down across this section with a health-threatening viciousness unequalled in 41 years.

Customer requirements for gas jumped to a new high . . . and the demand was great . . . so great that our customers used more gas in fighting the prolonged cold wave than at any similar period in our history.

During this prolonged cold spell, when unfaltering natural gas service was of vital importance for the health and comfort of our customers—NOT A SINGLE TOWN ON LONE STAR GAS SYSTEM WAS WITHOUT ITS GAS SUPPLY.

From 46 separate gas fields natural gas was moved through our 4,700 miles of INTERCONNECTED pipe line system to meet the emergency of the bitter cold weather. From north, east, south and west—from more than 1,000 gas wells in widely separated gas fields—we brought the supply through.

Modern facilities, including our many powerful compressor stations located at strategic points on the system and an abundant supply developed through many years played an important part in meeting this emergency. But of all the facilities maintained 365 days of the year for just such an unusual period as January, 1940, the greatest single factor for your unfaltering gas service is Lone Star Gas Company's INTERCONNECTED PIPE LINE SYSTEM CAPABLE OF BRINGING GAS TO OUR CUSTOMERS FROM 46 SEPARATE GAS FIELDS ACCORDING TO THE EMERGENCY.

Gas dispatchers in headquarters of Lone Star Gas System, Dallas, at work on one of the coldest days of the year. With heavy snow falling and the greatest demand for gas in 30 years, men were at their posts constantly. They are connected with far flung gas fields and compressor stations giving orders to step up pressures and cut in more wells. One man is receiving weather reports over short wave radio. They are alert for any emergency. Left to right: Tom B. Long, chief dispatcher; Luther Tolbert, assistant pipe line superintendent standing back of M. S. Ball, receiving weather reports; H. D. Hewitt, studying pipe line map.

Club News

An independent meeting of the Bryant Station Home Demonstration Club was held Thursday afternoon Feb. 1, with Mrs. Edward Senkel as Hostess.

The "Romance of a Lamp Bulb" was the first part of the program of which a detailed report was previously given by another club.

Are your kitchen activities planned so that sanitation will not be endangered? was the pertinent question asked by Mrs. B. B. McAnulty who gave some timely hints on "Use of the Kitchen."

For instance, is the kitchen the family washing up place. If so, does a wash pan and towel belong in a room when food is exposed? You get use to it but others see it diffenently.

Mrs. McAnulty concluded the second program by suggesting that we systematize the daily routine so that work can be done more efficiently. Even though the routine be interrupted, it is better than being stopped in the midst of haphazard work.

"Tufted bedspreads" is to be the demonstration given by the home agent on Feb. 22, when the club meets with Miss Nellie Balckstock. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

LITTLE FINLAND WILL NOT SURVIVE RED WAR

Hand writing on the wall in Finland told a sad but certain story today as Soviet Russia, calling upon her unlimited resources, prepared to increase by gradual fury her pressure upon the Finnish army.

Bombing planes, the Air Armada, long a subject of military comment, the world over, was gradually being revealed in its role of destruction and without help Finland is doomed.

Local success were reported on several fronts. The Russians had reached the outposts of the Mannerheim line, but in every attack have been thrown back with terrific losses.

Sweeden is the only country giving any effective aid to Finland.

Sweedish rifles were accounting for many Russian dead.

While the Finns have scored signal successes thus far in the war the weather has been largely responsible, plus the courage and determination of the besieged who in all history have been the most effective in warfare.

Finland, despite her heroic struggle against great odds, is doomed to destruction, unless the big powers step in to stem the Red tide.

British Feeling the Result of German Air Raids on Ships

The British Press today was crying out for action over the devastation caused by German bombing planes in a series of raids over territorial waters and shipping planes in the North Sea Friday and Saturday.

British conservatism was still in the saddle and the Royal Rir Force, while scoring in a fight Saturday off the coast of Scotland in shooting down 4 Nazi bombers, has been unable to penetrate or to even threaten the German naval bases across the sea.

British shipping was given a staggering blow, according to the German report, claiming 14 ships sent to the bottom.

Since the report published in The Daily Herald on Saturday of the air battle over the coastal waters of England, it has been established that at least 4 German bombing planes were shot down.

The bodies of one bombing crew were washed ashore off the Scottish coast while three other ships were seen to fall, one in a Scottish town.

The British naval blockade has swept the German flag from all the seven seas, the result being that no

GERMANY WINS HANDS DOWN AT BELGRADE

The Belgrade Conference, as predicted by observers and reported in the Daily Herald Friday, closed late Sunday with nothing accomplished beyond a perfunctory renewal of an existing amity pact between the countries of the Balkan area.

In the German Captital the result of the conference seems to have been correctly interpreted as a rebuff to the British and French who have sought for months to draw Rumania into the allied orbit.

Rumania, seeking a military alliance with the other small powers, was acting in fear of Russian or German agression. The fate of Poland and Czechoslovakia loomed large on the horizon as the representatives gathered for the talk. It was remembered that Britian and France, although under military obligations to both Poland and Czechoslovakia, did exactly nothing to help them when the German army marched.

Rumania would not profit from such an alliance because the British are not able to defend themselves to say nothing of running around the continent to supply aid to other countries.

In Germany the failure of Rumania to weld such an agreement was taken as an indication that the traditional British policy of getting other nations to do her fighting, has been checked.

Italy came out as a factor in the Balkan situation. While that country is against Russia there will be much happening in the next few months to disclose that in the end Italy, Russia, Germany, Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary will be grouped in varying stages of military alliances against England and France.

Turkey has already declared her intention to fight if need be, on the side of England and France. Greece is a known friend to the allies.

Peter Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Wells of Austin, a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Henderson of Cameron has been named one of the finalists in the recent Ames competition, coveted law contest in the East. Mr. Wells is a senior student in the Harvard law school. The contest is held annually for each graduation class, beginning when a student enters for his first year with competition between the 63 law clubs of the school until the third year when all but the final two are eliminated. Mr. Wells was one of eight of the council representing the Willisten club competing against the winning council of the Edward Warren Club. Among the jurists judging the contest was Justice Roberts of the United States Supreme Court who praised both sides of defense equally, paying high honors to Mr. Wells who was the only boy from Texas to be included in the competition. Mr. Wells received his Bachelor of Arts from the University of Texas in 1936 and took an active part in all campus activities, being a member of Phi Kappa Psi social fraternity and Phi Beti Kappa, national honorary fraternity. He will receive his law degree in June from Harvard.

Three Boys to Face District Judge Here Saturday

Three boys will face Judge W. G. Gillis in district court at 10 a. m. Saturday because they burglarized the Wilson Potato Chip Plant on Sunday night and were arrested by City Marshal Gene Smith.

The boys are: Nathan Lewis, 16; Conway Overton, 14; and Edward Diner, 13. The boys took potato chips valued at approximately $1.75.

Smith said that it has come to his attention that merchants in certain instances have required payment for goods stolen from their stores and have not called in the law. Mr. Smith said: "Those who attempt to settle thievery by this method commit a greater wrong than the boy who steals the merchandise. Burglaries can not be broken up unless those who steal are punished by law. I ask the co-operation of the merchants to stamp out these burglaries and thefts."

Felix Matula, Jr., has been absent from school the last week with flu, but he is on the road to recovery.

his outstanding business ability he was chosen to direct the affairs of the city. In this and in many other ways his training has equipped him for the duties he now seeks to perform in the office of Assessor and Collector of Taxes.

As a land owner and farmer he knows intimately and through long years of experience the value of lands and as a tax payer understands the burdens and the problems of those who pay for the operation of the County Government. Friends throughout the County believe that by reason of his training and ability, he would bring to the business of the office he seeks an efficiency that would insure the best possible administration of the exacting duties of this place of trust and responsibility.

The office of Assessor and Collector of Taxes because of its unusual requirements in business training and wide general knowledge of Tax Affairs, his many friends point out, makes him a desirable choice and they point out that his service would give the county povernment a definite advantage because it would call to the public service a man whose qualities and fine personality are admirably suited for the high standards the people have set in the administration of their government.

The character and highest standing of Mr. Davis among the people of Milam County are such that his election would bring a wealth of integrity and high purpose to the fiscal affairs, the people have come to regard as demanding the best in efficiency, understanding and aptitude.

Mr. Davis belongs to a family whose history is deep rooted in the high traditions of this historic county. As Assessor and Collector of Taxes, he would have the advantage of full understanding and knowledge plus the conception the splendid citizenship have always regarded as essential to a record of efficient public service.

Mr. Davis plans an active campaign to discuss with the voters his qualifications for this office. He desires to meet and discuss with the voters his plans to give them an outstanding administration of the affairs of the office and hopes to see each one to ask for their consideration of his candidacy, but in the event such is not possible, he appeals to the voters for their support and pledges the people that the same high standards of integrity and efficiency that have characterized his business life will be taken with him into the office, utilized to pay back in terms of service, adequate compensation for the trust and approval which are implied, if selected by them to become their servant in this responsible place.

He calls upon his friends througout the county to lend their active support and promises that he will justify in every way possible their assistance in the campaign.

WAR

ed but the extent of damage could not be ascertained.

Two of the German aviators were killed when their plane fell in a small Scottish town. Another ship forced down, was burned by its crew. The air battle was fought between German bombers and fast British pursuit ships.

Rumania demanded in the conference at Belgrade today that the Balkan countries also Greece and Turkey, give her an unconditional guarantee of military protection against agression from Germany and Russia.

The heroic defenders of little Finland had won another major battle today when they threw back with terrific losses the Russian armies now engaged in a major attack to break the resistance of the Finnish army.

The British government announced the signing of a commercial agreement with Turkey.

The most far reaching development of the day was the announcement that the Dardnelles and Black Sea will be available to British and French navies to enforce blockade against Germany.

Rumania was set for disruption of the Balkan Conference when the delegates convened shortly before noon Friday with a threat to line-up with Germany and Russia if the remaining countries including Greece and Turkey do not conclude a pack of mutual assistance for her security.

Turkey through her representative, Sarakoglu, threw a bomb shell into the diplomatic hopper when he declared that Turkey is no longer neutral but merely inactive. He further stated that Turkey is on the side of England and France and definitely opposed to Germany and Russia.

Turkey is demanding a Balkan pact to resist any aggression from Hitler and Stalin.

Russia was making some headway today in her fight on little Finland with the prospect that Finnish resistance would soon break under the constant hammering of the Soviet army and air force.

The Russians were attacking with greater intensity by air and land and it was reported that Stalin was on his way to the Mannerheim front.

For the moment the most important development was the conference at Belgrade where the whole future of the European war may be changed.

Way "Build-up" Helps Will Interest Women

The cause of a woman's periodic suffering from headache, irritability, cramp-like pain, may be functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition, a condition that is often helped by CARDUI.

Principal way CARDUI helps is by stimulating appetite and the flow of gastric juices. Thus it may aid digestion; help build up a woman's strength, energy and nerve-force; so increase physical resistance to periodic discomfort.

It also helps reduce periodic distress for many who take it a few days before and during "the time." Your confidence in CARDUI is invited by its 50 years of popularity.

BONDS

have characterized his unselifsh devotion to duty.

The office of Assessor and Collector of Taxes in point of importance can hardly be overestimated. Fully realizing both the solemn duty and responsibilities the people have so generously entrusted to him, he has applied his unusual administrative talents to bring to this important branch of the county government the highest standards of efficiency and has achieved the maximum of results in efficiency and helpful aid to the tax payers in transacting their business with his office.

To achieve these results and to give the people the efficiency they have the right to expect in one who undertakes these resonsibilities, Mr. Bonds has at all times retained the services of experienced employes and requires them in the light of his conceptions of public duty, to serve the people at all times in full measure of understanding of the highest traditions of efficiency.

The elements of such a record are embraced in terms of economy, courtesy, knowledge of taxes and their application to the needs of the county government, together with friendly and helpful concern for the problems of those who are called upon to bear the burden of financing the government. Friends were pointnig out as he released for publication his announcement for re-election that because he possesses to an unusual degree the fine qualities so essential to the better standards of public service, his candidacy will inspire wide general approval among the people of the county.

Mr. Bonds was deeply grateful for tht generous pledge of support from all sections of the county and feels that nothing short of full application of his experience, so necessary to proper conduct of the office, will satisfy his desires to give back to the people complete loyalty as a measure compensation for the trust implied by their support.

In making his announcement for re-election, Mr. Bonds released the following statement:

"I wish to announce my candidacy for re-election to the the office of Assessor and Collector of Taxes, and again ask your support and influence.

"I know that I can serve you more efficiently than ever before, because of the experience I have had in the work in this office.

"Having lived in Milam county all my life, and believing that I know personallly almost every Property Owner in the county, and being familiar with the values and the location of lands, schools and roads, enables me to prepare the Assessments of the property in the county so that each district may receive the taxes justly due them.

"There are constant changes in the laws governing the operation of the office of Assessor and Collector of Taxes, which require continuous study and an unlimited amount of detail work to properly carry on the work in the office, and to faithfully protect the interest of the Tax Payers' as well as to properly collect, handle and disburse into the various channels the taxes paid into the office by the Tax Payers.

"Because of these constant changes in the laws, there are often misunderstandings. So long as I am entrusted with the office, I sincerely hope you will call on me or my employees for an explanation of anything pertaining to your tax matters which is not satisfactory or clear to you.

"There are new duties being placed on the Tax Assessor and Collector continuously, and having been your Assessor and Collector and studied every phase of the new duties gradually as they come, enables me to thoroughly understand every detail, and therefore serve you efficiently

"In casting your vote for this important office, I am asking that you think of me as the man you have given the job of looking after your tax matters, and if I have been loyal to you and if my work has been satisfactory, may I ask that I remain in your employ—promising to serve you faithfully and diligently."

Mr. Bonds hopes that his duties may not be too exacting to prevent his seeing each one to ask their vote and support, but in the event this is not possible, he takes this method of expressing his appreciation for any consideration you may show and urges his friends throughout the county to lend their active support of his candidacy for re-election to the office he has so faithfully and efficiently administered to serve you as your interests deserve, believing that no standard is too high to uphold in an office of public trust.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Casey and children of Taylor visited Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Skelton of Cameron Sunday.

Bartle Grennen of Burlington was in Cameron on business Tuesday.

STIDHAM

administration which the highest standard of public conception demands may be measured in terms of the job which Mr. Stidham has so well done.

Looking over the records it is noted with more than usual interest that Mr. Stidham has in his district 168.6 miles of gravel roads and there are 131.4 miles of dirt roads, making a grand total of 300 miles of roads to be maintained. There are 454 bridges and 25 metal culverts. These statistics do not include State Highways in his precinct.

From the above it can be readily seen that Mr. Stidham has a tremendous job. How he has managed the affairs of his precinct is a story that reveals one of the most efficient records in the annals of the County Government. Friends throughout the Precinct are giving Mr. Stidham the praise which he so justly merits.

One of the most commendable facts about his record is the financial standing of the Precinct. It is highly satisfactory to note that Mr. Stidham has so well managed the fiscal affairs of the precinct that his equipment has been paid for and no indebtness of any character is outstanding against the precinct.

To make the above record more outstanding it is interesting to note that Mr. Stidham has to the credit of his various funds splendid cash balances, thus insuring the people that under all these circumstances their Commissioner occupies a position of advantage in making purchases and dealing with the problems that confront him.

Mr. Stidham believes that no better service can be rendered than to safeguard the funds of the precinct and this he has done to a remarkable degree. He has the best equipment that money can buy and will be in a better position to serve the people in the future than at any time in the past.

Mr Stidham plans to see each voter to ask for their support In the event time does not permit him to see each individual he extends to you through this announcement an appeal for your continued support and co-operation, pledging the people that he will continue to safeguard their interests and to see that all sections of the precinct are justly treated in the distribution of tax benefits

Corley fled the ranch home after the shooting, and according to Sheriff Kennedy, returned to the home of his brother and without telling any one of the shooting asked Mrs. Corley, his sister in law, to take him to Temple, explainting that it was necessary that he go immediately to the Bell County Capital.

Accordingly Mrs. Corley got out the family machine and took her brother in law to Temple where he was seen for the last time.

Mrs. Corley was shocked when she read in the newspapers on Sunday, details of the shooting.

Sheriff Kennedy was making every effort to place Corley under arrest, but at 3 p. m. Monday had not been able to locate him.
